Recommendation Letter for Mr. Ali Almalki

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to you in support of Mr. Almalki. I have taught him a course on data warehousing and data mining. In the course, he demonstrated technical skills and excellence during class participation, quizzes and projects. In his class project, he implemented a solution to a real life data mining problem. He was among the top 3 students of the class.

He completed his final year project under my supervision. At that time, he was among the first students in the department to develop a data analytics solution using Twitter API and python. His project collected data from Twitter about universities in Saudi Arabia and visualized different statistics and charts about the collected data. The project can be of particular importance to university administration, students and government for gaining insights about the universities' presence on social media. Mr Almalki demonstrated his ability of self-learning during the project and is quite capable of implementing technical solutions with minimal supervision.

He is definitely one of the most dedicated students I have ever met in this department and I can highly recommend him for a job. Furthermore, I see a great potential for research in Mr. Almalki. He would be an excellent candidate for any research oriented degree. He is an intelligent and a diligent student. He enjoys the trust and respect of his teachers and fellow students, and is kind of person one would like to work with. I'm sure you will find him to be a persistent person and a good researcher. Feel free to contact me if you require any further information.

Sincerely,

Rabeeh Ayaz Abbasi
